Aim(s) of the Course	This course aims to engage students with theoretical knowledge on immigration policies in order to argue its economic, historical, and political aspects both at global and EU level. It aims to develop a critical thinking in understanding how international politics, global economy, and socio-political processes have both shape and respond to immigration. This course is offered as part of the activities under UNESCO Chair on International Migration.
Learning Outcomes of the Course	Upon successful completion of this course, the enrolled students will be gaining the following knowledge, skills and competences:
	1	To employ the theoretical framework to the real current cases
	2	To analytically argue politics of international migration at EU and global level
	3	To argue EU's migration and asylum policy at national state and EU level.

	4	To analyze specific aspects of EU migration governance with a focus on irregular migration, asylum seekers, refugees, development, and integration policies
	5	To debate the linkages between EU's external policies, relations with third countries and the implications on migration governance
